Message from the President

Hello everyone, I hope all of you are doing well.

Its winter quarter and hopefully not a cold and snowy one for you! Many of us will be traveling, finishing up holiday activities and hopefully some family reunions. Reunions are not only a good place to keep acquainted with relatives but they are an excellent resource for working on your family genealogy. We have had quite a few members and new members getting started or continuing to research their families and ancestral information. It has also been very busy times lately so far this past quarter and I am sure for you as well. Y'all stay warm and safe with this colder winter this year. Winter is the time of year that the FCGS Cemetery Committee can get out and document Fairfield County cemeteries. Recently, Jon Davis, FCGS Cemetery Chairman, FCGS Member Sarah Sexton and I were able to document Friendship AME Church Cemetery near Winnsboro.

I have continued to keep up with emails and have attempted to handle research requests via email in a timely manner. As well as continued to update as time permits, the FCGS Members Only web pages and this newsletter. We added or updated the FCGS Members Only web pages for the following digitized family information: Family Cemeteries: R: Rosboro, Rosborough, Roseborough, Y: Yongue, James Yongue; Families A: Anderson, B: Bailey, Bratton C: Carlisle, Colvin, Cross G: Gladden H: Hallam, Hallum, Howell, J: Jamieson, Jamison, Johns, K: Kelley, Kelly L: Laughon, Lauhon, Lawhon, Lawhorn, Levy, Lockwood, M: Milling Mc: McClintock, McGill, P: Palmer, R: Rosboro, Roseboro, Roseborough, Y: Yongue; Plat Books B: Pages 1-555 C: Pages 1-431.

It is sad for me to report that one of our lifetime members, Mary Ann Ladd Hollis has passed; below is Mary Ann's obituary. Our prayers of comfort go out for the family at this time. Mary Ann will be truly missed.

I/We want to welcome and thank our new and renewal members for their 2026 support! We, at FCGS thank each of our FCGS members for their membership support and volunteering their time and services to their society. Also, we want to thank FCGS Board members for their devotion and continued work for the society. Please consider helping us by volunteering to assist in cataloging and properly storing these invaluable resources. FCGS Board officer, Pelham Lyles has stepped up to fill our Vice-President / Program Director. We all look forward to the interesting programs, speakers and field trips she will plan for us. FCGS Member Betty Carol Luffman has stepped up to fill the Treasurer position. She is replacing retiring long time member and treasurer, Larry Ulmer. We appreciate his faithful and professional service to the society. Also, new member Jenna Brown has volunteered to take up the newsletter/editor. Exciting time ahead for 2026! We are most appreciative for our new and past volunteers for their assistance with programs, membership, donations, and support!

We have continued to encourage FCGS members to get to know each other on a more personal level by sponsoring or participating in the following events this since last report:

- Thur., Nov. 20th, 11:30 AM "FCGS Full Board Meeting" Barn Express
- Fri., Dec. 7th, 4:30 PM Joint Societies Christmas Gala, Fairfield County Museum
- Thur., Dec 11th, 5:30 PM FCGS Christmas Party, Lizard's Thicket, Blythewood, SC
- Thur., Jan. 15th, 11:30 AM "FCGS Full Board Meeting" Winnsboro Fiesta, Winnsboro
- Thur., Feb. 19th, 11:30 AM "FCGS Full Board Meeting" Peace on Earth, Winnsboro

Remember to check back with us or check the FCGS Announcements page on FCGS website for latest details or additional Information on Events and Meetings. Make plans to come out and join us!

I still plan to publish the newsletters in the first week of the first month of each quarter. If you are considering submitting an article to the newsletter, please submit your information in MSWord or Notepad format to Eddie. The deadline is the last week of each quarter.

Remember if visiting the Fairfield County Genealogy Library for assistance; please bring the following with you if at all Possible and/or applicable: Pedigree(s) or Family Tree Chart(s), Ancestry.com ID and password, MyHeritage.com ID and password, DNA Kit(s) and password(s). All these will help facilitate our assistance with your inquiries.

In your service,

Eddie Killian

Mary Ann Ladd Hollis

On November 12, 2025, Mary Ann Hollis departed from her earthly life to be with her heavenly Father forever. She died at Union Medical Center, Union, SC. Mrs. Hollis was born in Winnsboro, SC, on December 13, 1940, and was the daughter of the late Garriss McCabe Ladd, Jr., and Dorothy Cooper Ladd. She was also predeceased by her husband, Lewis Barns Hollis, Sr.

Mrs. Hollis graduated from the University of South Carolina in 1963 with a BS degree in Business Administration. She worked with Manhattan Shirt Co. in Winnsboro, American Red Cross in Columbia, and John D. McCloud, Attorney, in Winnsboro. From 1971 until 2003, she and her husband, Lewis, owned and operated Hollis Plumbing Co., in Blythewood, SC. Mrs. Hollis was the Financial Administrator at the South Carolina Bar for a few years. She was an active member of Trinity United Methodist Church in Blythewood, where she served on the Staff-Parish Committee, the Altar Guild, home visitation to welcome new babies, the Building Committee, the Worship Committee and was treasurer for the Koinonia Sunday School class, Oasis Choir and the United Methodist Women. She also sang with the Chancel Choir and the Jewel Tones Ladies' Choir. She volunteered in other areas as needed. In her latter years, she enjoyed attending the ladies' Sunday School class and Joy Club at Philippi Baptist Church in Union.

Mrs. Hollis was a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) and the United Daughters of the Confederacy (UDC). She was the treasurer for the Fairfield Chapter of the SC Genealogical Society in Winnsboro. Mrs. Hollis was very proud that her family, among many others like them, were some of the earliest settlers of America. The Ladd family has been in America since 1634. She compiled a book of the descendants of Daniel Ladd, immigrant from England, titled "The Ladds and Related Families, from Massachusetts to South Carolina."

Time with family and friends was very important to Mrs. Hollis, especially holidays and vacations. She adored her family and enjoyed attending plays, games, and competitions, where she proudly cheered for her children and grandchildren.

Surviving Mrs. Hollis are three children, Dorothy Cheryl (Cherie) Chibbaro Wilson and her husband, Gerald Wayne Wilson of Union, SC, James Daniel (Danny) Hollis and his wife Lisa Marie Hollis, and Bryan Patrick Hollis and his wife, Meagan Renee Suttles-Hollis, all of Columbia, two stepchildren, Michael (Mike) Anthony Hollis and his wife, Sonja Maddox Hollis of Chapin, SC, and Patsy (Susie) Hollis Davis of Middleburg, FL. She is also survived by grandchildren, Jacob Anthony Wilson, Leah Camastra Wilson, Hannah Rose Wilson Abt, Sarah Ann Wilson Hill, Savannah Brooke Hollis, Daniel McCabe Hollis, Griffin Andrew Prill, Lydia Michelle Prill, Miranda (Mandy) Hollis, Jonathon Hollis, Cassidy Hollis Hall, Stephen Hollis, Kristine Hollis Pemberton, Rachial Hollis, Michele Hollis Stanley, Michael A. Hollis, Jr., Gracy Francis Hollis, John Willis Davis, Jr., and Lisa Ann Davis, a number of great-grandchildren, a sister-in-law, RoseMarie Chibbaro Nolan and a brother-in-law, William Allen Nolan. Mrs. Hollis also leaves behind a special friend and caregiver, Beth Walker of Union. She was predeceased by her first husband, Anthony Matthew Chibbaro, a son, Christopher Allan Matthew Chibbaro, brothers, Garriss M. Ladd, III, and Richard Allen Ladd, a stepson, Lewis B. (Butch) Hollis, Jr., a son-in-law, John Willis (PeeWee) Davis, Sr., a granddaughter, Kimberly Ann Hollis, and a grandson, Mark Anthony Hollis.

Funeral Services will be held Tuesday, November 18, 2025, at Philippi Baptist Church, Union, SC, at 1:00 PM conducted by Rev. Robert Scott. Visitation will precede the funeral service from 12:00 noon until 1:00 PM at the church. A committal service, conducted by Rev. Robert Scott will follow at 3:30 PM at the Trinity United Methodist/Sandy Level Baptist Church Cemetery, 408 Blythewood Rd., Blythewood, SC.

FamilySearch Announces Collaboration with America250

"Together, We Build America's Story"

SALT LAKE CITY, UT (29 January 2026)—FamilySearch International today announced its collaboration with America250, the national, nonpartisan organization charged by Congress to commemorate the 250th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. FamilySearch will support America250's mission to celebrate unity, heritage, and progress by inviting individuals, families, and communities across the nation to remember, discover, and add their own stories to expand America's collective narrative and connect us all. (Find this announcement in the FamilySearch Newsroom.)

FamilySearch's theme for America's 250th Anniversary—"Together, We Build America's Story"—encourages people everywhere to "add what you know" to the free, collaborative FamilySearch Family Tree. This effort ensures that family memories, local histories, and ancestor stories contribute to the broad, diverse fabric of America's national story.

America250 encourages the nation to pause and reflect on its past, honor the contributions of all Americans, and look to the future being built for the next generation. FamilySearch's activities reinforce this spirit by helping individuals and families uncover ancestral resilience, migrations, sacrifices, and achievements that illuminate the American experience.

Collecting Stories that Reflect Our American History

America250 emphasizes that "the American story is woven from the unique and varied narratives of our people," highlighting the importance of both well-known and unsung contributions to the nation's development. FamilySearch's role in helping individuals discover and preserve family histories directly supports this national focus, enabling Americans to document and celebrate the stories that shape their communities and heritage.

Rosie Rios, chair of America250, said, "When we know our story, we know America's story—because it's the people who came before us who built our country, and then we continue to build it."

The America250 campaign aims to engage all 350 million Americans as part of the country's 250th anniversary on 4 July 2026. FamilySearch complements this goal through its collaborative, free Family Tree, which thrives on millions of contributions from individuals seeking to tell, preserve, and connect their family's story, which plays a part in America's story.

FamilySearch America250 Activities in 2026

FamilySearch America250 is a new web page launched for the national celebration to help show how every family has contributed to the American story. Throughout 2026, select FamilySearch centers and affiliate libraries across the United States will offer America250-themed experiences, including:

- Assisted discovery of ancestors who lived through significant historical eras of American history
- Access to free genealogical records (immigration, military, census, local histories)
- Activities for youth groups, schools, and community organizations
- Hands-on help adding family stories, photos, and memories to the FamilySearch Family Tree
- Free personalized guidance from trained volunteers

More information is available at FamilySearch America250.

Why Family Stories Matter for America250

Family stories add depth, color, and humanity to the national narrative. By participating in FamilySearch's "add what you know" invitation, individuals can help ensure America's 250th anniversary reflects the experiences, memories, and family connections of people from every community, culture, and heritage background.

Steve Rockwood, CEO, FamilySearch International, notes, "America's story is built one family at a time. As we commemorate 250 years, we invite everyone to add what they know—names, memories, and photos—to help preserve the diverse experiences that shaped our communities and our nation. Together, we can make sure every voice is heard in America's story."—

FamilySearch invites individuals, families, educators, youth organizations, and community groups to participate in the America250 effort by discovering ancestors and adding personal and family stories to the FamilySearch Family Tree. Every story contributed helps ensure that America's story is more complete and better reflects the rich legacy of its people and heritage.

About FamilySearch

FamilySearch International is the largest genealogy organization in the world. We are a nonprofit, volunteer-driven organization sponsored by The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Millions of people use our records, resources, and services to learn more about their family history. To help in this great pursuit, FamilySearch and its predecessors have been actively gathering, preserving, and sharing genealogical records worldwide for over 125 years. People access our services and resources free online at FamilySearch.org or through over 6,000 FamilySearch centers in 129 countries, including the main FamilySearch Library in Salt Lake City, Utah.

About America250

America 250 is the official nonpartisan initiative established by Congress to commemorate the 250th anniversary of the United States. Through programs, partnerships, and nationwide engagement, America 250 aims to inspire participation from every American to honor the nation's past, celebrate its present, and build a more perfect future together. Sicleana S. McCall, History shapes our kids and nourishes our elders—Let's protect both with practical prevention.

Dear Community Leader,

My name is Prevention Specialist Sicleana S. McCall, and I serve with the Georgetown County Alcohol and Drug Abuse Commission. I'm a Navy veteran, a lifelong resident of Georgetown, and I completed my undergraduate degree in Charleston, SC. I've had a heart for prevention for many years, and while I'm new to GCADAC, this is not just a job—it's my purpose-driven life. One morning, while listening to my parents talk, I reached for a book on our shelf and pulled out To Walk the Whole Journey: African American Cultural Resources in South Carolina (1991). I was three when it was printed. The title drawn from a letter by Rev. D.S. Blackshear of Zion Olivet Presbyterian Church, Charleston spoke directly to my heart.

The cover shows children in front of the Jenkins Orphanage in Charleston in the early 20th century, a powerful reminder of the strength and continuity of our communities. If this note reached you from that listing, you are one of the closest ties to the journey I could find. I care deeply about our generation, about how our history shapes the brilliant minds of our children and nourishes the minds of our elders. The mind has always been fragile; drugs and the pressures of life can weaken it further. Still, restoration is possible with education, connection, and unity.

In my role, I focus on prevention; helping individuals, families, and communities reduce risks connected to substance use, while also creating spaces that support safety, wellness, and healing. Prevention is about more than information. It is about relationships, culture, and compassion.

I'm reaching out across South Carolina—schools, businesses, tour groups, shops, research/archival resources, museums, historic houses/markers/festivals, colleges, universities/cemeteries, monuments, campgrounds, and others because every setting meets people who deserve prevention, care, and clear information.

If welcome, I can share a brief public message, host a simple resource table with handouts and a stress-reset skill, offer a mini-class or workshop, or co-teach and help deliver classes you already run—in schools, businesses, tour groups, shops, research/archival resources, museums, historic houses/markers/festivals, colleges, universities/cemeteries, monuments, campgrounds, and other community spaces. I would be honored to share a public message in your church service, school program, campus event, museum program, health fair, tour, or community gathering.

I'm asking our community to walk the whole journey with me what I call Fix Theory™: small, consistent acts of care (learning, connection, follow-up) that repair what pressure and substances try to break.

If there's a better contact for community engagement or chaplaincy, please forward this and CC me.

To make next steps easy, please reply with:

Yes/No to connecting, what would work best for your setting (Message / Resource table / Mini class / Co-teach), and the right contact if that isn't you.

A simple "Yes" + one word (Message / Table / Class / Co-teach) is enough—I'll follow up.

Spanish materials are available, and I'll match your photo/youth policies and any accessibility needs. Thank you for the work you already do and for your continued commitment to our community.

With gratitude,

Sicleana S. McCall

Making Irish surnames English –

In 1518 the authorities of Galway decreed “neither O' nor Mac shall strut and swagger through the streets of the city”. The names of the native Irish male population all names began with O' or Mac meaning “grandson of” or “son of” followed by the personal name of the ancestor. In the late 16th century the Irish nation under military and social duress began the process of changing their surnames to sound more English. Despite popular beliefs the 12th century Norman Conquest was not an English conquest.

The 17th century marks the first true English conquest of Ireland which is reflected in the fact that it was suddenly un-cool to have an Irish surname in Ireland! To give readers an idea of the duress the population was under the English Poet Edmund Spenser (who spent 20 years in Ireland) called upon the English to commit genocide against the Irish. He lauded earlier works like that of Earl Arthur Grey who in 1582 used brutal scorched earth tactics which resulted in a serious famine which killed as many as 30,000 people in just six months. The Elizabethan conquest of Ireland (1565-1603) marks the first time a central government was established in Ireland. The native Brehon laws were outlawed and English law imposed. People were cleared off their land in a process we now call ethnic cleansing. To add insult to injury all things Irish were despised, including the Irish manner of hairstyles, clothing and everything else. Therefore it is not surprising that it became unfashionable to have an Irish name. While the surname change process was initiated by oppression it was not the sole cause. In the new political and social climate one could only hope to ascend through the social ranks by appearing to conform to the new social order. Gaelic families might use their surname to demonstrate their loyalty to the new power, while families of Norman descent hoped to mitigate discrimination and avoid having their land confiscated by calling themselves "the old English". Thus surname change was an imperative of survival as the alternative was to face annihilation be it social, financial or physical. In reality many families had two names, one for official documents and another which they were commonly known by to their friends, neighbors and relations. A similar practice continues to this day most notably in the forename Liam, almost all bearers of the name are not called Liam on their birth certificate but William. Surname change was subject to a number of different processes which has led to the surname forms we have to day. Phonetic variations - English officials unfamiliar with the Irish language recorded surname as the heard them and thus wrote the names down phonetically. For example Mag Oireachtaig (Ma-gur-ach-ti) becomes Ma'Geraghty or Mac Geraghty. Another scribe might hear it different like Mc Garrity or recorded it carelessly. Thus one surname takes on the appearance of many and we get all these variations Gerrity, Gerty, Gerighty, Gerighaty, Gerety, Gerahty, Garraty, Geraty, Jerety, McGerity, MacGeraghty, MacGartie, MacGarty and many more. Misspellings - were also common because the uniformity of spelling we enjoy today was not present in the English language until very recently. An interesting example is William Shakespeare (1564-1616) who spelled his name in a variety of ways. Despite his great learning and literary accomplishments 83 variants of his name have been attested in English source material Direct translations - of Irish names also occurs for example Ó Marcaigh to Ryder, Ó Bradáin to Salmon and Fisher, Mac an tSaoir to Carpenter or Freeman, Mac Conraoi to King, Ó Draighneáin (meaning from a place abounding in briars) is translated to Thornton. Ó Gaoithín (meaning from a windy place) is translated to Wyndham. Assimilation - is the name given to the process of substitution with foreign names of similar sound or meaning like these French examples. Ó Lapáin became De Lapp, Ó Maoláin became De Moleyns, Ó Duibhdhíorma became D'Ermott. Molloy (O' Maol an Mhuaidh) and Mulligan (O'Maoláin) became Molyneux. Pure substitution - occurs where the connection between the original surname and the substitute is remote for example, Clifford for Ó Clúmháin, Fenton for Ó Fiannachta, Loftus for Ó Lachtnáin, Neville for Ó Niadh, Newcombe for Ó Niadhóg. Attraction - sometimes rare names are often subsumed by more common names. Ó Bláthmhaic is anglicised as Blawick or Blowick and becomes Blake Ó Braoin is anglicised as O'Brien, Breen becomes O'Brien, Ó Duibhdhíorma is anglicised as O'Dughierma or Dooyearma, becomes MacDermott, Ó hEochagáin is anglicised as O'Hoghegan becomes Mageoghegan, Ó Maoil Sheachlainn is anglicised as O'Melaghlin becomes MacLoughlin. The Gaelic revival movement of the 19th century caused many families to reverse the Elizabethan changes and they chose to restore the Mac and O to their surnames. This process will be looked at in our next post. Image taken from "Mapping the Emerald Isle: a geo-genealogy of Irish surnames" 1890. A searchable map based on the 1890 census is available here.

Mischief loves company

There's bound to be folks brave enough to fess up to the antics and shenanigans the ornery cousins managed to keep from their parents or grandparents these many decades. Wrangle a volunteer or two to retell a rambunctious adventure. Enlist others to jot down a real-life escapade and, on the sly, drop it in the "mischief" bucket. Read the noted adventures one at a time and guess to whom the incident belongs. It's never too early to spark an interest in family history among the youngest family members. And, it's never too late to learn more about the generations that came before us. I'll argue that every day is the right time to engage in conversations about family history. But there's something extra special about spending time reveling genealogy.

Hidden History at the Louisville Zoo

by Aimee Rose-Haynes

AimeeRoseHaynes.com AimeeRoseHaynes@gmail.com

Hidden in the Louisville Zoo's Etscorn Garden is the Phillips-Durrett-Clark Cemetery, a small pioneer family burial site. It includes Revolutionary War soldier Jenkin Phillips (1744–1822), who helped survey Kentucky. The cemetery was uncovered during zoo construction in 1969.

Nestled quietly beneath the shady canopy of trees in a corner of the Louisville Zoo lies a piece of Kentucky's early frontier history: the Phillips-Durrett-Clark Cemetery. Tucked behind a low rock wall and marked by a wrought iron arbor, this serene burial site is part of the tranquil Etscorn Garden area, offering a peaceful contrast to the buzz of zoo activity just beyond.

This modest cemetery holds the remains of members of the Phillips, Durrett, and Clark families, who were among the early settlers of Jefferson County. The most notable of those interred is Jenkin Phillips (1744–1822), a Revolutionary War veteran who served under General George Washington. Phillips helped survey and settle parts of Kentucky under the direction of Patrick Henry and the Commonwealth of Virginia, making him an important figure in the region's colonial and early statehood history.

The cemetery might have remained hidden forever if not for the construction of the Louisville Zoo in the late 1960s. As workers cleared land for the new facility, they uncovered this long-forgotten burial ground. City officials faced a choice: remove the graves to another location or honor the site where the families had originally been laid to rest. They chose preservation. A living descendant of Jenkin Phillips was still in the area at that time and expressed interest in being buried beside her ancestors, which influenced the decision to keep the cemetery intact. As a result, the new zoo opened in 1969 with the family plot incorporated into its landscape, turning it into a unique historical feature within the zoo grounds.

Although only one headstone remains legible, belonging to Jenkin Phillips, records and family accounts suggest that as many as fourteen people were originally buried there. Over time, weather and neglect eroded most of the markers, and some of the remains may have been moved to Louisville's Cave Hill Cemetery, a large and historic burial ground that became the final resting place for many of the city's most notable residents.

Visitors who encounter the Phillips-Durrett-Clark Cemetery today may be surprised to find a pioneer graveyard nestled among exotic gardens and animal habitats. Yet this quiet sanctuary serves as an important reminder of how the past endures within modern spaces. It connects present-day Louisville with the families who helped carve out its earliest settlements and whose lives stretched across some of the nation's most transformative events. Within the Etscorn Garden, the cemetery's shaded stillness offers both reflection and continuity, showing that history often lingers in the most unexpected corners of everyday life.

The story of Dr. Ernest Moraweck: from river town hotel to Titanic victim

by Aimee Rose-Haynes

On a chilly night in April 1912 a Kentucky doctor named Ernest Moraweck vanished with more than 1 500 others when the RMS Titanic slipped beneath the Atlantic. In the days that followed newspapers were unsure whether he was aboard, and some hinted that a scandal might have followed him to his death.

A hotel keeper's son

Ernest Louis Moraweck was born on 28 February 1858 in Davenport, Iowa. His parents, Anton Moraweck and Claudina Kroboth, were immigrants from the Bohemian and Moravian regions of the Austro-Hungarian Empire. Soon after his birth the family travelled down the Ohio River to Tell City, Indiana, a settlement where German was widely spoken and backed by the Swiss Colonization Company. Anton bought a three-story hotel called the Steiner House; after renovating it he renamed it Hotel Moraweck and it became a landmark for river travelers. Ernest grew up living above the taproom and learned to value hard work and hospitality.

As a young adult he worked as a collector for the Frank Fehr Brewing Company in Louisville. He married Emilie Basler, a woman of Bohemian descent from Ohio. The couple moved to Louisville and remained childless. Emilie died in 1904 from an organic heart ailment that took her quickly and unexpectedly. In her will she left her property to her husband. He had her cremated in Cincinnati and she was later interred with her family in the Basler plot in Tell City.

Professional Career

In 1894 he left his job to study medicine. He attended the Kentucky School of Medicine in Louisville and quickly earned a reputation as a skilled lecturer in histology and pathology. He later travelled to Heidelberg University in Germany and the University of Vienna to broaden his education. Moraweck specialized in ear, nose and throat surgery and also practiced ophthalmology. He published cases in medical journals. One report from 1901 recounted a patient who regained her sight after he operated on her eyes. He also patented a novel surgical instrument. He also was a professor at the Kentucky School of Medicine in Louisville in 1904 just after his wife's passing.

By 1912 he was a widower with a thriving practice and a large farm near Brandenburg, Kentucky. The property covered more than 1,000 acres and lay near a railroad. Some sources refer to it as Moravian Farm and others as Catinna House. He used this farm as part of his medical practice. He also often spent months in Europe for professional reasons and had become something of a transatlantic commuter.

A friendship with a German widow

Moraweck's name is most closely linked with Frau Magdalena Hasse, a widow from Freiburg in Germany who was about sixty years old. They met aboard a steamer sailing between Hamburg and New York in 1909 and crossed paths again in St. Louis in 1910. She later visited his farm in Kentucky and died there in April 1910. Her will included a surprising provision: she gave him her villa in Freiburg, which was worth roughly $40,000. She also requested that her body be cremated in the United States and that her ashes be returned to Germany, an unusual wish at the time. Ernest honored these instructions by arranging her cremation in Indianapolis and sending the ashes back to her family. Relatives of Frau Hasse were unhappy with the codicil. They accused the American doctor of exerting undue influence and challenged the will in the United States and in Germany. Reports from the period indicate the courts upheld the bequest, although some later writers suggest the inheritance was reduced. Regardless of the outcome, this episode is the only documented instance in which Ernest Moraweck was named as a beneficiary in a non-family member's will.

Rumours of other "lonely widows"

After the Titanic disaster some writers and commentators claimed that Dr. Moraweck charmed other wealthy widows who visited his farm and later left him property. These tales appear in later summaries and online forums, but contemporaneous newspapers and legal records do not identify additional women or confirm any other inheritance. An article on the history of otolaryngology notes that it has been suggested he won the confidence of several elderly widows but emphasizes that no proof exists. Without names or probate files to examine, the notion that he repeatedly inherited from multiple widows remains mere speculation.

Final voyage on the Titanic

In April 1912, Dr. Moraweck booked passage from Southampton on Titanic as a second class passenger. He was headed home after several months in Europe managing the Hasse estate and demonstrating a surgical device. When the passenger list first appeared, some in Kentucky wondered if the Ernest Moraweck named there was the same man. Confirmation soon came in a letter sent to Louisville Mayor William O. Head by London banker Benjamin Ball. Ball reported that he had spoken with Dr. Moraweck just before the ship sailed and learned that the doctor was rushing to Southampton because flooding on the Ohio River had submerged his farm and he wanted to return to America quickly.

During the voyage, Moraweck befriended a young Englishwoman named Kate Buss, who later recalled that he was very agreeable. He removed a cinder from her eye and offered to show her New York when they arrived. On the night of 14 April 1912, after the ship hit the iceberg, Buss met him in a corridor. He offered to go and find out why the engines had stopped; she declined his help. He walked away to investigate and was not seen again. The doctor did not survive the sinking, and his body was never recovered.

His own will

In 1904 he drew up a will in Louisville that divided his estate, estimated between $50, 000 and $75, 000, equally between his sister Claudina Coldewey and his brother Alvin Moraweck. He also asked that his body be cremated at the nearest crematory; because his remains were never found this request could not be fulfilled. His farm in Meade County, which was valued at about $40 ,000 passed to his brother. This land would later be owned by Olin Mathieson Chemical Group then sold again to the Ditto family

A life of contradictions

Dr. Ernest Moraweck embodied many of the tensions of his era. He was born to immigrants, grew up sweeping floors in a riverfront hotel and then became a respected surgeon, lecturer and inventor. He forged connections with European colleagues and introduced advanced surgical methods to Kentucky. His friendship with Magdalena Hasse generated a fortune that, rightly or wrongly, clouded his reputation after his death. The Titanic disaster took away any chance he had to answer his critics, and in the absence of his voice myths have flourished. Only one wealthy widow, Magdalena Hasse, is known to have named him as her heir, and courts validated her codicil. His own will primarily benefited his siblings. Beyond those facts, stories of multiple wills and mysterious deaths are unsupported by evidence. Ernest Moraweck deserves remembrance not just as a Titanic victim or the subject of gossip but also as a physician who bridged continents, invented a surgical instrument, published in medical journals, and made lasting contributions to both medicine and Kentucky history.

I: Loretta Killian, Why this job is so interesting. This old ledger-diary was found in an old house being torn down some years ago. The McKeown family lived in the area around the Chester and Fairfield communities around the Blackstock area. Mr. McKeown's daily routine involved a little bit of everything a farmer/craftsman of the 1830s might need to know, including a routine of attending all the rural churches between the Catawba-Wateree and the Broad Rivers in northern Fairfield/southern Chester. Enjoy:

Memorandum Book Or Record of Passing Events

On the 28th day of May 1835 I moved back again the second time into my father's old house to keeping house by myself.

1835 May 30th- Had a swarm of bees come off which I brought down to the old house and set them up there.

31st- This morning when I arose from bed I found my fence on fire either by accident or design but suppose it to be an accident from some fisherman's fire.

Sunday 31st- Sacrament to be administered today at New Hope Church Little River by Major Boyse and (Mr. or W.) Flanagan.

Sunday 7th June 1835- attended preaching at Beaver Creek or New Grace Church. W. Roberts preached from 3 Ch. Of John 17

Thursday 11. Jenny McKeown was taken ill in the field while dropping peas and fell down as if in a fit of apoplexy and _____ insensible while she was carried to the house and bleeding the arm and cupped on the temple etc. When she came to and sensible she complained very much of great _____.

17th John's bees swarmed and settled on a past oak and we hived them in a gum about 10 o'clock. They settled in a two places.

Saturday 20- Went to Chesterville and got a coat cut out by A. R. Nicholson. Same day John's bees swarmed from the same gum and hived them.

22 Monday Morning and the night before almost cold enough for frost and continued cold all day.

Sunday 21st- Aaron Gosey's smoke house and _____ was broken or robbed and two middling of bacon taken out of each and it turned out that Fill Watson took away meat and on being found out he ran away and was taken by Jeremiah

At the gallows he's appeared to those around to be resigned to his hard fate and expressed himself as having a lively hope in the Redeemer. He walked to the gallows on foot without any guard. Rev. W. Townsend sang and prayed for him and the people. He gave a solemn warning to all the people part of which was written down and read out and part was verbally spoken by himself. He said that he had no malice at those two men whom he had killed and had no intention of doing them any harm when he went there before he took spirits but through the heat of passion he did what he did. He regretted much that he had not been taught to read the bible in early life saying that he never knew or studied much about the plan of Salvation until confined in jail. If I had, said he, had not been come to this end lamenting his poor mother and little sister. I humbly hope this case may take a solemn impression on my mind and on the minds of many. May I never forget the solemnities of death.

Q: Katherine "Cam" Turner, Do you know where I can locate the portrait of "J.P." Isenhower that once was hung in the Fairfield County Hospital?

A: Pelham Lyles, the portrait is here at the Fairfield County Museum of John Philip "J.P." Isenhower (pictured above). The surname Isenhower is historically prominent in Fairfield County, South Carolina, with family members involved in construction, local government, and significant historical events. For genealogy records: Specific information regarding the Isenhower family in Fairfield County includes: Construction: Members of the Isenhower family were noted mechanics and carpenters in the mid-19th century. They were reportedly involved in the construction of the Mount Olivet Presbyterian Church and Concord Presbyterian Church in Fairfield County, as well as the remodeling of the Colonel William Bratton house in nearby York County. Local Events: A person named Clyde Isenhower was involved in a widely reported deadly shootout at the Fairfield County Courthouse in 1915, in which a sheriff, several deputies, and a prisoner were also shot. This event is documented by the FCGS. Notable Individuals: John Philip "J.P." Isenhower was an educator, minister, statesman, member of the SC Legislature. Ernest Lee Isenhower (1885-1954) was a native of Winnsboro who served as Clerk of Court for 11 years and a school teacher for 17 years. He was also a veteran who served on the staff of Governor Strom Thurmond. Hazel B. Isenhower (1918-2012) was born in Fairfield County and was a well-known daycare operator and church member in West Columbia. James Clyde "Ike" Isenhower (1914-2008), also born in Fairfield County, lived most of his adult life in Jacksonville, Florida, and was a member of the Woodmen of the World and a local Baptist church. The Earl Gwin Isenhower house in the Rockton and Rion Railroad Historic District is another point of local interest. The Isenhower name is well-documented in local historical & genealogical records (FCGS).

Q: Christopher Peak, I am Thomas Rodgers Peak's grandson. I am seeking information about his biological (Rodgers?) family.

A: Here is a quick link to the digitized family information on our FCGS Members Only web pages for: Rogers.

Q: Johnny Belmont, I am researching my 4th great-grandfather, John W. "Jacky" Wynn/Winn, born about 1769 in Fairfield District, who later migrated to Georgia (Gwinnett → Campbell/Douglas) and died in 1849. I was referred to your museum by Debbie Bloom, who mentioned that you may have local Winn family files, genealogies, or research materials that could help connect him to the correct Fairfield Winn family. I am specifically hoping to learn whether you have any materials related to: Winn / Wynn / Wynne families in Fairfield County (1760–1810)

Including:

- family history folders
- donated manuscripts
- Bible records
- cemetery transcriptions
- local genealogical notebooks
- land or property references
- early Fairfield family charts
- newspaper clippings or obituaries
- local oral histories or notes from past researchers

My primary goal is to determine who the father of John W. "Jacky" Wynn (b. 1769) may have been.

Secondarily, I am trying to identify his wife Mary Rogers's family, and any Winn family connections to the Rogers or Curtis families during this period. If you do have Winn family files or related materials, could you please let me know:

- Whether the museum can provide a brief lookup or confirmation of what Winn materials exist whether scans or copies can be provided (and any associated fees)
- Whether appointments or research visits are required
- Whether there are local historians or donated Winn collections that you know of

Q: Jamison Murphy, I am attaching a copy of our family tree. I need to document our family tree for the Sons of the American Revolution. I only need to go back to William L. Bloom (1819-1895); the rest of the way back to the American Revolution is already documented. Dr. James H Murphy, on the bottom, was my father. If you have an idea how I could gather this info, please point me in the right direction. They all lived in Curwensville, Pa. I do have some old family Bible pages, but most are from before 1819.

A: You can get into SAR through Thomas McClure, Sarah's father.

I: I just used Ancestry to get us back to Thomas McClure through William Bloom who was an SAR member. Tony Brice has looked it all over sent me the applications for my son and I.

Q: Roy Wilson, Now that I have retired from teaching, I have convinced myself that I must try to find the father of my ancestor Stephen R. Bratton, born in SC, in 1827. (I found a source on familysearch.org that Stephen's middle name was Rounsavall.) I have no record or idea where that came from on that site, I always assumed it was Robert since Stephen's son was named Thomas Robert Bratton, born 1849, here in Arkansas about 6 miles south of where I have lived since 1974.

Since Fairfield County is not far from Historic Brattonsville, I still believe that Stephen is most likely descended from some of the Brattons who settled there in the 1700s.

Years ago I contacted Brattonsville and they were unsure about my being any direct descendant from Col. William Bratton, although one of his descendants, Jerome Bratton, through Dr. Simpson Bratton, did indeed arrive in this county to settle nearby the other Bratton's who had already moved here in the 1840's. I also found where two of Col. Bratton's brothers were named Thomas and Robert. Therefore, I'm just speculating that some of them may have moved to nearby Fairfield County.

In 2012, I created a work for the Arcadia Publishing group as part of their Images of America series entitled SHERIDAN AND GRANT COUNTY. Please find attached a picture of the 1840s Bratton Cabin that was found inside a larger barn. On one exterior wall were the initials JB and on the other TB. I thought that it referred to the two children of Stephen: Thomas Bratton, b 1849, and Jane Bratton, born 1851. This cabin was built about a mile from where Thomas and Jane's mother, Eliza Elen Black Bratton had lived with her parents. The owner donated it to our county museum, pictured at the Hwy. 270 site, but when the museum moved across town, the cabin was not. A director of the museum refused to tell me where it went.

My question concerns any information that you might add from your resources or records to add to my quest to be able to move back more generations on my Bratton family line. My maternal grandmother, Alice May "Lizzie" Bratton Allen, b 1880, was the fifth and youngest daughter of Thomas Robert Bratton. A son was born but perished as an infant.

On the Federal Census for Fairfield County in 1840, there is an interesting entry: (York District with 2 Robert Brattons and a Dr. Wm. Bratton on p. 151 in Fairfield County.) p. 282

Robert Bratton 1 male child aged 10-15 which corresponds with Stephen's age.

And, 1 male child aged 15-20, which may correspond with his older brother James Bratton who both appear on the 1850 Census for this area in the correct area of Cross Roads in Calvert Township, Saline County until 1869, when it became Grant County.

A: Here is a quick link to the family digitized information on our FCGS Members Only web pages for Bratton families.

Pelham Lyles, Eddie shared with me your request for information about your Bratton ancestor

<https://ghea21.bard.edu/global-learning/faculty/all-faculty-profiles/lisa-bratton.html>

Lisa is an African American descended from the Wm. Bratton family slaves genetically descended from the immigrant. I think she traces to Der. John Simpson Bratton. She is a fine scholar and may be able to help you track your line. I have attended the Brattonsville family reunion gatherings in the past few years as one of my ancestral connections was my ggg(?g) uncle (see below for McCaw connections to the Bratton's).

Several marriages connected the Bratton and McCaw families in the York County (Yorkville), South Carolina area, particularly in the 19th century-- notable Marriages: Isabella Means Bratton married Robert Gadsden McCaw on April 18, 1848, in York, South Carolina. Robert Gadsden McCaw was a prominent planter and Confederate-era Lieutenant Governor of South Carolina. Agnes Bratton (daughter of the Revolutionary War Colonel William Bratton) married Robert McCaw. William Bratton McCaw, the son of Robert Gadsden McCaw and Isabella Means Bratton, was born in Yorkville in 1857. He married Emma LeSassier on November 24, 1885.

Also, I suspect you are already knowledgeable about the family collection at the Caroliniana Library.

Hope this helps in your search.

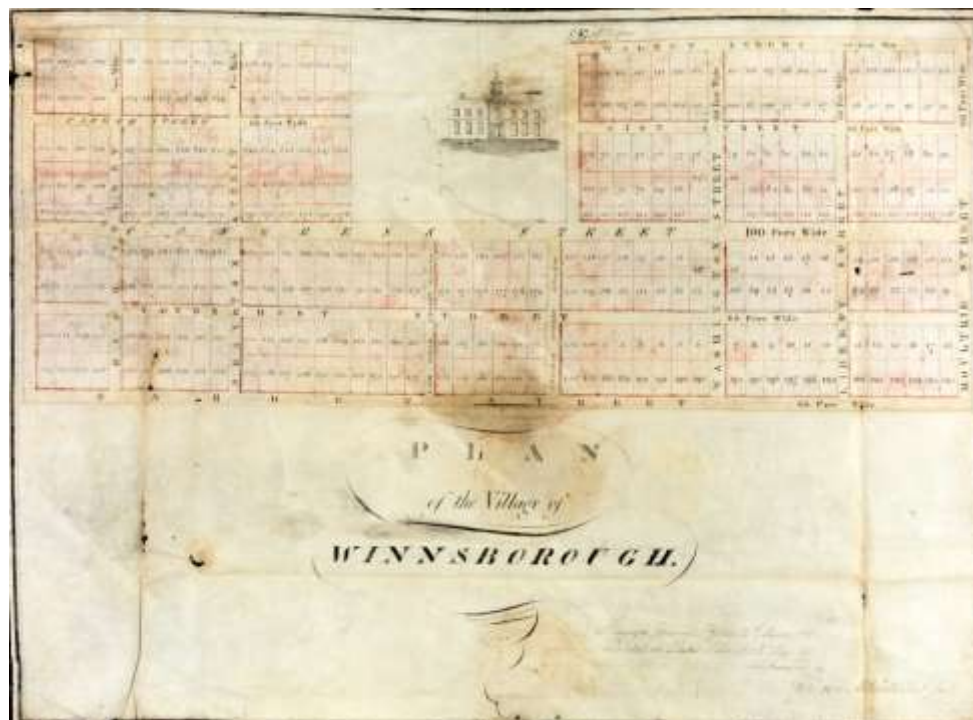

I: THANK YOU, I will check on this fantastic information. Hopefully, I can find a connection to Robert Bratton and his potential son Stephen R. Bratton who moved to Arkansas.

You have shared a lot of information in this email and I am so glad to have heard from you.

I would like to visit the Brattonsville Historic area someday.

Q: Tony Hoskins, I enjoyed talking to you earlier today about my Palmer ancestors in Fairfield Co., SC, c1782-c1800.

Here follow notes on the in-progress genealogy:

CHARLES PALMER (c1720, King William Co., VA-1798, Fairfield Co., SC) m. --- FOX [apparently daughter of Henry FOX (III), of Lexington Co., SC]. Their son was:

FRANCIS PALMER (c1752, King William Co., VA-c1820, TN), m. CAROLINE DELONY / DULANEY, [apparent sister of HENRY DELONY (c1753-1792, SC or VA)] Their two sons:

1) Rev. HENRY DULANEY PALMER (1782, NC or SC-d. 1861, Woodford Co., IL), m. PATSY ANGELL, daughter of John Angell and his wife, Rhoda Humphries (later wife of Jesse Hainey). Henry Dulaney Palmer is my 4 greats grandfather.

2) Rev. FRANCIS ROSE PALMER (1789, Fairfield Co., SC-1873, Missouri).

Mr. Killian, I appreciate your thoughts on helping work out details of this family in Fairfield County and any associations, connections with the Winn, Fox, and Delony families. I'll be glad to reimburse you for your thoughts and efforts.

William Palmer, from Virginia and South Carolina.

William [actually probably Francis] Palmer, the father-in-law of Charles Ready, was born in King William County, Virginia in 1752, and moved from there to Fairfield district, South Carolina. He is supposed to have served in the American Revolution. After the Revolution, he removed to Tennessee and settled near Lebanon, in Wilson County, but after his death, his widow moved to Rutherford County and lived with the Readys at Readyville.

William [properly Francis] Palmer and his wife Caroline Dulaney were the parents of children as follows:

1. Philip Palmer died young.
2. William Palmer, who was born in 1777 and died in 1857 in Lebanon, Tennessee. He married Susan Rankin, and they were the parents of 13 children.
3. Henry Dulaney Palmer, born, Charleston, South Carolina, preacher.
4. Susan Palmer.
5. Francis Rose Palmer, also a preacher at Independence, Missouri.
6. Caroline Palmer married Nelson
7. Mary Palmer, who became wife of Charles Ready.

/Tennessee Cousins/ (1950) by Worth S. Ray, p. 624.

Liberty Weekly Tribune
Liberty, Clay County, Missouri
October 24, 1873

Death of Elder Francis R. Palmer. Died at his residence in this city on the morning of the 22nd, Elder Francis R. Palmer. He was born in Fairfield District, South Carolina, August 30, 1789. Removed with his father to Sumner County Tennessee, about the year 1795. Became a member of the church in 1809. Was in the War of 1812 under Jackson at Pensacola and New Orleans. Was a member of a spy company. Fired on the British on the 23rd December, 1814, below New Orleans. Was at the Battle of New Orleans and witnessed the entire charge of the British army. Was that his post of observation between the armies when the action began. Removed to Kentucky in 1816. Became a minister of the Gospel in 1812. Removed to Missouri in 1836, and to Clay County in 1865. In the death of Elder Palmer the county has lost one of his best citizens, the church of which he was so long the minister, one of its most faithful workers, and his family a kind and loving husband and father. Peace to the ashes of the venerable patriarch.

William Francis Palmer was born in King William Co. Va., about 1752. Died 1824, near Lebanon, Wilson Co., Tn. Corporal in Capt William Johnston's and later Everard Meador's Company; Col Daniel Morgan's Regiment, Virginia Troops, March 1, 1778. (From supplemental paper of Laura Lillian Jetton, 179060). It is said he served in the Revolutionary War under Gen. Francis Marion, some say under 'Light Horse' Harry Lee. He lived after marriage in North & South Carolina. Lived in Fairfield District, S.C., later. He married Caroline Dulaney (French decent) of the eastern shore of Maryland.

After the war he moved with family to Tennessee; settled on Duck River. Caroline Dulany had a sister who married Charles Ready, whose son, Col. Charles Ready, married her daughter, Mary Palmer. (His first cousin) His daughter, Mary Ready, and family settled near Murfreesboro, Tenn., at the same time. Both sisters, after they were widows, lived with Charles & Mary Ready and are buried at Readyville, Tenn. This came from Mr. Van Armstrong.

I: William Hurst, It definitely proves that Mary, wife of James Mooty, had a son named Alexander. I will continue to look for the others.

Q2: William Hurst, I am at a point with my research where I cannot go any farther if I cannot prove that Frances Mooty, daughter of Alexander Mooty, married John McKemie, 1792, son of Johnston McKemie. Since they were all members of the "Brick Church", I would hope that it would be in the church records. Also in the 1820 Census Johnston McKemie and John McKemie are listed next to each other and John is shown with 1WM in the 16 - 26 range and 1WF in the 16 - -26 range. I think John McKemie and Frances Mooty married about 1820 in Fairfield County. Any help would be greatly appreciated.

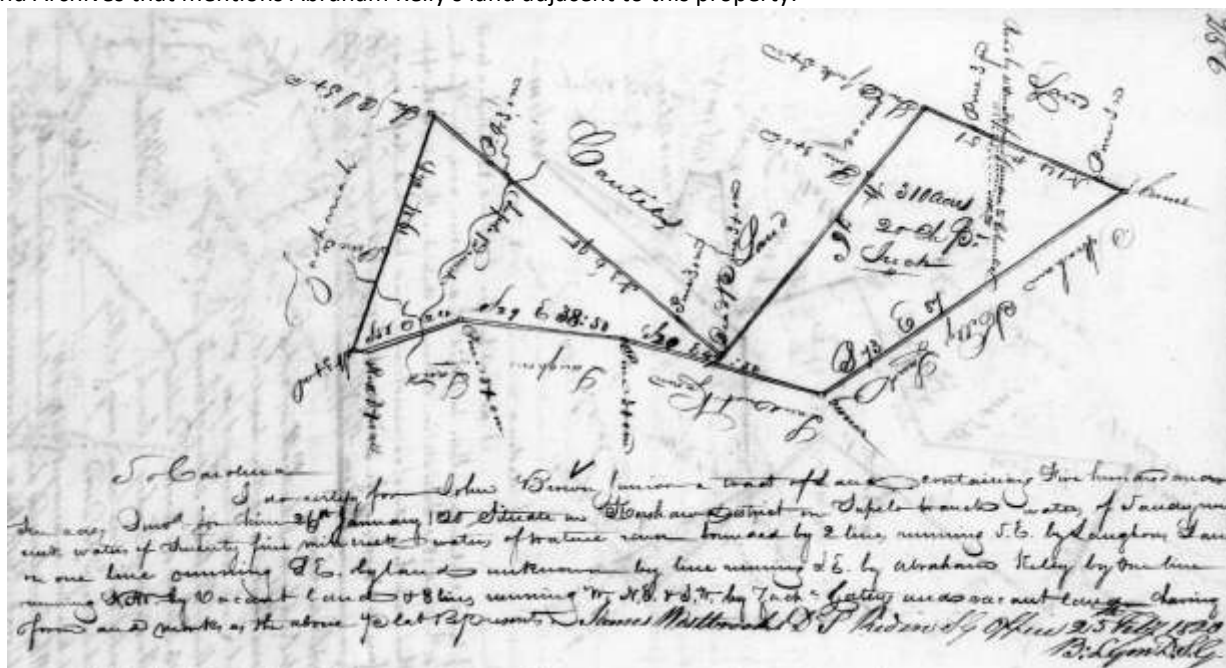

A2: After checking our collection in the library, I discovered that we did not have any Presbyterian specific marriage and death notices. We do have one ARP book on marriage and death notices, but its for 1843-1863; way later than your request. I found Brent Holcomb's books on Presbyterian Marriage and Death Notices, a five-volume set. I ordered these books for the library. I did not find any reference except one of John McKemie's sons in 1812. So, I contacted Ben Hornsby another member and the FCGS Recording Secretary and he suggested contacting Erskine College in SC that the college used to be ARP. He suggested that I ask Sabie Cathcart. So, I have contacted Sabie Cathcart, a member of Bethel ARP here in Winnsboro. Bethel has control of taking care of Old Brick Church and Cemetery today. I asked him about where the church minutes may be stored. He said that was a good question; that he is going to do some research this week with his pastor and another friend. I am supposed to hear back from Sabie by next week. Sabie concurred with Ben that Erskine College may have some records or possibly the old minutes.

Q: Gale Kane, I am researching the family of Walter Kelly (ca 1738, prob NC - 26 July 1774 Kanawha Co, WV) married Sarah/Sadie. Walter appears to have been the son of Walter, Sr and unknown first wife (m.2, Widow Elizabeth Edwards Bearfoot abt 1755), and he died after 1776 prob. Camden. He was a cordwainer. Walter, jr. was a frontier longhunter who took his new wife to SW Virginia in 1759, and to Greenbrier in 1767. After their homestead was attacked and Walter killed in 1774, wife Sadie returned to South Carolina with her children. (I think there may have been 8.) His oldest son, James, left a lengthy Rev War pension. From it we can pinpoint the family living along the Fairfield/Lancaster line. Sarah is on 1790 and 1800 censuses in Fairfield Co. The last record we find is a 1786 deed finally signed by Sarah Kelly, son James and wife Mary Ann, 29 Dec. 1807. James married "after the War" and had 7 children, he thought 14 years, then moved to Greene Co, TN. I presume this was 1797ish when Tennessee became a state. He moved around, finally zeroing in on Maury Co, then at the last lived with his son in Perry Co, TN. My own branch of this is Samuel Kelly, b. 1790 in S.C. DNA indicates that he was a cousin of Billy Kelly, both of Lawrence Co, TN. DNA confirms that Billy was a brother of James. My Samuel could have been a son of Thomas or John Kelly who may also be Sadie's sons. Associated families of interest are Pain, Campbell, Ivie, maybe James and Smith. Walter, jr. had a brother William, who was also killed, after rescuing the family from the Indian attack. I think Billy above was posthumous and named in honor of the uncle. There was an Abraham Kelly in Fairfield Co who might have been a brother of Walter, Jr. Do you have info on Abraham?

I'll have to see if we have anything in our Chester, Kershaw, Lancaster and Richland County collection for your request.

Q2: Gale Kane, I will dig further on Abraham. He interests me because he was 9 doors down from my Sarah Kelly in 1800. The plat index has entries that are interesting. Several for Sam Kelly and one for Walter Kelly.

McCREIGHT HOUSE

McCREIGHT – SMITH – QUATTLEBAUM

In Winnsboro there are many quaint, picturesque, stately, and homely houses. The old McCREIGHT HOUSE is a perfect combination of all the above objectives. It was built in 1774 by Colonel William McCreight, a Scotch-Irish cabinet-maker who was one of the first of his trade to settle in Fairfield County. Besides being one of the first, he was one of the best. Many of the old homes throughout the county contain fine pieces of furniture that were made by him. Wherever they are found, they are always pointed to with pride by their owners.

Before this house was built, all the houses in and around Winnsboro had been of log or stone construction. This home has the distinction of being the first "board" house in the town. It is a simple, comfortable, dignified building. The first floor is a little below ground level and is built of thick masonry walls. The tapering chimneys are massive, thus tying in with the solid foundation. The roof has a pleasing, gentle slope and extends on the front over a broad porch that is decorated with simple, square columns, rails, and pickets.

All the framing is hand-hewn, and the boards, both inside and out, are hand-planed and pegged. The few nails used in the construction were hand-wrought and are oddly shaped. The main body of the house is three stories, with two large rooms on each floor. The kitchen and dining room are in the basement, with the living and bed rooms on the second and third floors. The kitchen still displays some of its gifted builder's handiwork. On one wall is a quaint corner cupboard with butterfly shelves and glass panes in the upper doors.

The floors are of long, hand-hewn, hand-planed pine boards that are fastened with hardwood pegs. All the interior woodwork and trim is simple but refined in design. The mantels are wide, with high shelves and very little decoration. The original shutters still hang beside the old-fashioned, twelve-paned windows.

This old house has shared its hospitality with many of the great men who were in the area during the Revolutionary War. It witnessed and survived the Yankee occupation, and from all appearances this sturdy, well-constructed old building will have as many years ahead as it has had in the past.

After the McCreights, the James M. Smith family occupied the home. It is now the property of Mrs. W. M. Quattlebaum, a descendant of the Smiths, and the McCreights, who cherishes and cares for the old place which has remained in the same family since it was first built.

MACFIE PLACE

MILLING – MACFIE

Captain David Milling, born in 1797, came to this country from County Down, Ireland in the early 1820's. He landed in Charleston, South Carolina where he remained for a short while and then moved to Columbia where he was a prosperous merchant. Other members of his family had settled in Fairfield County at an earlier period. He purchased one thousand acres in Fairfield and later came here and settled permanently. He was twice married. His first wife was Jane Wright and they had several children. One son, James, was a prominent physician who graduated from the South Carolina Medical College in 1855 and immediately afterward settled in Louisiana.

In 1850 Captain David Milling married Mrs. Sarah Yongue Milling who had several children by her first marriage. She was the widow of another David Milling, a kinsman of Captain David. She and Captain Milling had two daughters and three sons.

The house was built about the time that they were married and the family holdings had increased to two thousand two hundred acres and many slaves. The place prospered and the family was counted among the wealthy gentry of the county.

During the War Between the States the Milling plantation was in the path of Sherman. When the invaders arrived the meat supply in the smokehouses was so great that it could not all be carried off so the surplus was burned. The soldiers heard stories of the handsome silver that had been in the house before their unwelcome arrival. When it could not be found they questioned the old Captain who refused to reveal the hiding place. After threatening to burn the house they took him to the big barn where preparations for his hanging were begun. His daughter, Margaret, then a young lady, learned of her father's sad plight and hastened to the barn to tell the men to release him and showed them where the treasure was buried.

In 1893, when Captain Milling's widow's estate was settled, their youngest daughter, Lorena, who had married James Macfie, bought the interests of her brothers and sister and retained the plantation and house which was famous for its corn and flour mills. The Macfies later moved to Winnsboro and James Macfie became sheriff of Fairfield County, an office that he held for many years. The place now belongs to Palmer Macfie of DeLand, Florida, a son of Lorena Milling and James Macfie.

This is a typically ante-bellum, Southern plantation house. It was a lovely old place but it has been unoccupied for a number of years and has fallen into a state of dilapidation and desolation.

HISTORY OF MONTICELLO METHODIST CHURCH

(This is the sixth in a series of articles dealing with the history of the ten churches enrolled in the Chamber of Commerce Rural Church Improvement program.)

(By Mrs. T. W. Shedd)

The Monticello Methodist Church was organized about 1800. Records of a Methodist Society are reported regularly from 1810 to June, 1814. Prior to 1810, all record of Monticello refer to the academy or school house, and it is thought that the Methodist itinerants held regular preaching services at the academy. Monticello at that time was part of Congaree Circuit and a church membership roll of 1819, which is believed to be the oldest, has been preserved. Namely, John Pearson, Leader, William Cato, Barnette Buchanan, John Hollingshed, Mary Pearson, Ann Hite, Mary Powell, Elizabeth Boyd, Elizabeth Oliver, Agnes Buchanan, Mary Farr, Barbara Hollingshed, Lucy Thornton, Elizabeth Flooden, and Francis Farr.

Fourteen acres were given by Captain Phillip Pearson for the erection of a church building. The first church on the site was of logs and the second was a small frame building, which was burned. The present church was built in 1861 with Jacob Bookman as architect. D. B. Kirkland, Col. William Alston, Capt. J. K. Davis, and J. James composed the building committee. The payment of debt on the building was assumed by Col. Alston and was prolonged by the Confederate War, but later the debt was paid in full by Joseph Kirkland Alston, an officer in the Spanish American War.

Q: Pelham Lyles, Do we have anything on Jannie Harrison's murder?

A:

A: Pelham Lyles, I wasn't able to find anything on Robert Boulware murderer or Jannie Harrison in Chronicling America. On Findagrave.com, I find Jannie in White Oak Church Cemetery July 17, 1901-Feb. 4, 1940. <https://www.findagrave.com/memorial/27867726/jannie-harrison>

She was mother to Ruth Harrison Caldwell Gibson, the widow of Alexander Gibson, owner of Gibson Funeral Home <https://www.legacy.com/us/obituaries/thestate/name/alexander-gibson-obituary?id=17298410> chrome-extension://efaidnbmnnpbpcjpcglclefindmkaj/https://s3.amazonaws.com/CFSV2/obituaries/media/3202/618942-RuthGibsonObituary.pdf. I know the family so will approach them for more information.

Q: Chris Pulver, I am still researching my McKemie (McKimmy) family from Fairfield County. I was wondering if you would be able to track down a reference I have for a William McKimmy who died in 1807. The source says "From the City Gazette and Daily Advertiser" S.C. Historical and Genealogical Magazine Vol 30, 1929, p. 248. I was wondering if you have access to this if you could send me a copy of the page. I'm not sure where this took place. I am hoping it's not from Charleston S.C. since there are some McKimmy's I find there, but they are not my family that I know of.

A:

Died, on Monday morning, Mr. William McKimmy, in the 20th year of age. He turned out in one of the Beat Companies, at the Brigade Review, on the 23d ult. and not having provided himself with a box for his cartridges, he deposited them in his waistcoat or breeches pocket, to which the flash from his pan communicated, as he incautiously fired his piece, upon a charge; and he was shockingly burnt: He languished in great agony till his death. A: Passed request to Nancy Hoy, FCGS DNA Administrator for assistance.

Q: Bo Williams, your link to the RWA yearbooks does not appear to be working? I was able to access other yearbooks.

A: There was a problem with the latest website backup. Richard Winn Yearbooks are now available.

Q: Brian Gilding (Hengelo, The Netherlands), I have downloaded "Trapps of Ancient England & Colonial America Volume II" by Ardis Clayton Trapp from the Fairfield County Genealogical Society, and am currently studying this document with great interest. My mother was a Trapp until she married my father in 1950. My genealogical research subsequently brought me into contact with Ardis in the 1970s. Unfortunately this correspondence did not survive into the 1990s, and I gather that Ardis has since passed away. Can you please inform me how I might obtain a copy of "Trapps of Ancient England & Colonial America Volume I"?

A: Emailed Brian the publisher, explained a copy may be available from them or authors family.

Q: Steve Parks, I have gotten help from you guys before. My gggg grandfather Prof Thomas Park died in Winnsboro in 1884. I have searched what I believe to be every cemetery in Winnsboro but can't find his grave. I know his wife Mary Botsford Park died in 1828 in Columbia so if I could find her grave maybe Thomas was sent to Columbia for burial? Can you give me any days as to where I should go to seek help in finding either of them? Also they had a son Jeremiah B Park born 1800 and died in 1880 but I don't know where he died or is buried. I can't find his burial on any sites. Any information could possibly lead to something that may lead me further in my search.

A: <https://www.archivesindex.sc.gov/> (330,000 online images. 375,000 names. 13,000 places. 17,000 topics. Just take me to the search page. The South Carolina Department of Archives and History, houses state, government, military, municipal records, etc. very little family records. Caroliniana Library on USC Campus houses private and family collections.

Enter: Park, Thomas

Q: Bill Jurgelski, Pelham, I was wondering if you have any records regarding a possible grist mill on Sawney's Creek in the eastern part of the county. DOT is replacing the Park Rd. bridge over Sawney Creek (see attached location map), and a local landowner stated that there was once a grist mill in that location. The archaeologists who did the cultural resources survey (Tracy Martin and Becca Shepherd, copied) found what appeared to be the collapsed remains of a wooden bridge at the location, but nothing definitive in terms of mill remains. Tracy has also looked at our usual selection of old maps, etc., and has not found a mill shown on any of these resources. So we were wondering if by any chance there might be something in the museum holdings about a mill there.

A: Pelham, I've attached the site map. The mill remains are supposedly on the eastern side of the current bridge. The new bridge will be replaced on alignment and shouldn't impact any remains. There were a few cut stones from what we could see from the creek bank but it was mostly a scatter of stones, nothing definitive. Please let me know if you need anything else. Any help is appreciated.
-Tracy A. Martin

Bill, this is about where it appears the present bridge is located on a jpg image of the tax assessor's maps. If the replacement bridge will go to one side, would it be the east or west side of this location? Trying to determine the property on which the "rumored" location of a grist mill might be found. We could do a trace back in the court house records on the suspected property records. I know there were numbers of old gristmills located on these fast moving streams and I always lament the fact that the Col. Black mill site, so obviously visible, happened to be smack dab in the middle of the tract where Luck Granite Company has located their first big pit. I'm out of town this week but am forwarding this conversation on to Eddie Killian in the genealogy department. He has been digitizing many of the old county deed books online and if we can determine the probable property's owner, we can perhaps check back through the old deed books for mention of a mill operation on Sawney's Creek. I'd be interested in seeing any archaeological remains if they are to be found. -Pelham
